FAQS

Q. What is Freegal Music?

A. Freegal is a downloadable music service underwritten by your library. You will need your library card barcode number and PIN to login. Once logged in you will have access to about 3 million songs, including Sony Music's catalog of legendary artists and music from over 10,000 labels from over 60 countries. NO software to download, and NO digital rights management (DRM) restrictions. (NOTE: Copy-right laws still apply for all music downloaded on Freegal Music website.)

Q. How does Freegal Music work?

A. Limit of 5 downloads per week. Check the status of your weekly downloads by looking at the usage download counter located in the upper right corner of the Freegal Music website. The download counter resets each week at Monday 12:01 AM EST. (NOTE: Each time you click/tap the download link it is counted against your download limit, even if you cancel or just play the title.)

Q. What if my internet connection is interrupted during the download process?

A. When you click/tap download, a copy of that title is available in the Recent Downloads area of the Freegal Music website. You can re-download a title up to 2 more time within a 2 week period. This will not count against your download limit. You can download the title to the same or a different computer or device.

Q. Can the titles be transferred or burned to a CD?

A. Yes. You can transfer the titles to any device capable of playing MP3 files. You can burn to a CD by following the instructions for your computer's software.
